HALLOWEEN CARDS FOR KIDS WHO HAVE APRAXIA OR ARE NON-VERBAL

What's Included:

Page 1: For kids with Childhood Apraxia of Speech - These cards educate your neighbors by (proudly!) letting them know that your child has apraxia and that they'll be getting their candy no matter what.

Page 2: For non-verbal kids that don't want to let anyone know their diagnosis but still want to get the credit for making the huge effort to knock on someone's door to ask for candy.

Page 3: For kids that don't want to tell anyone they are non-verbal. These cards can be glued back to back and attached to a stick or wand. Show the first side when asking for candy. Show the second side before leaving.

How to Use the Cards (from a speech therapist's perspective):

- Have your child ring the bell.
- Have your child give the card or show the sign to the adult at the door (great for communication practice).
- When your child gets their treat, have them show the "thank you" side (of the 3rd page sign). Your child can also use the ASL sign for "Thank You."
- Have Fun! Remember, you don't have to explain anything so someone just because they are a neighbor. Do what feels right. Just enjoy trick or treating with your child and watch them have a blast as they get (too much) candy.
